A few days ago at recess I met a girl named Eden. We talked to each other the whole recess. Since we met we have been giving each other things, weird right? First she gave me a pencil, then I gave her a invite to my party, then she gave me Pokemon things even though I don't like Pokemon I'll still keep it forever, And then I wrote about her on my website. We've only known each other for four day's but we are still best friends!
